ALISTAIR SMITH CONFERENCE

Winning the H Factor

Monday 1 November 2010
Ramada Hotel - Sutton Coldfield

The Birmingham Catholic Primary Partnership is delighted to announce that a one-day course on 'Winning the H Factor', is to be delivered by Alistair Smith, on Monday 1 November 2010. Alistair Smith is a provider with a national reputation, as the attached information clearly illustrates.

This training would be suitable for an INSET training day for all staff, or for any individual/s looking for a new and exciting training course, to bring fresh and inspirational ideas into their school.

In this new and highly topical day, Alistair looks at the question of core purpose in schools and asks what can be done to make them into happier and therefore more fulfilling places. You will discover what the research says about happiness and learning, find ways to make your school lives more enjoyable and find out more about yourselves along the way. As ever, Alistair appreciates the reality of your everyday challenges so this day will provide over a hundred strategies for improving your school and the well-being of those who invest their week day lives in it.

The cost for this one-day course is £80.00 per person, (includes all catering). If you would like to book a place/s on this course, fill and return the attached proforma as soon as possible. Payment should be made either by cheque made payable to: The Birmingham Catholic Primary Partnership and sent to:

The Birmingham Catholic Primary Partnership Office
c/o Newman University College
Genners Lane
BIRMINGHAM

Alistair Smith has been described as "the UK's leading trainer in modern learning methods". He is a trainer, author and consultant. An outstanding presenter and motivational speaker, Alistair travels throughout the world delivering training based on his best-selling books and interactive programmes.

After both a chequered school experience and a career which included working in construction, quarrying, museums and the Prison's Service, Alistair taught in schools in England. He worked with the Advisory Service in a large Local Education Authority before setting up his company Alite. More recently, he has written award winning books, featured on radio and television programmes, and spoken to over 100,000 educators, parents and developers at conferences throughout the UK and abroad.

Alistair's highly respected award winning Accelerated Learning model has been used in classrooms as a means of raising pupil motivation and achievement. His 2001 book The Brain's Behind It, was one of the first in the UK to look at translating brain research for teachers.

Alistair originated and co-authored the L2 suite of products. L2 is an innovative Learning to Learn approach designed to develop the knowledge, skills and attributes of the outstanding learner. Over half a million students now have access to this approach.

Alistair Smith also has a dual career in professional sport. He is the designated learning consultant to the English Football Association where, on behalf of their 50,000 students, he helps modernise training and coaching provision. He has delivered to the FA's prestigious UEFA Pro Licence course since its inception, working with over one hundred managers at the top levels of the professional game. He also works with European managers and coaches on behalf of UEFA.

"One of a tiny handful of 'freethinkers' and influential visionaries'... who push the boundaries"
Channel 4 Television, September 2005

"The guru of acceleration"
Times Educational Supplement, July 2005

"He is a leader in his field. He comes from a practical background so all his examples are grounded in reality and so are easy for schools to work with."
David Crossley, Director of Achievement Networks, Specialist Schools and Academies Trust
